SLOANE A GREAT RIDER

Tardy Acknowledgment of Jockey's Ability by London Press.

LONDON, November 11.-"Tod" Sloane the American jockey, has won high approval here, and the newspapers which formerly criticised him now acknowledge that he is a great rider. The Globe says: "However ugly Sloane's style it pays,

The Sun says: "Even the most prejudiced are forced to admit that he knows how to beat most of our men when his mount is good enough. There is something in his method deserving of consideration."

Another Note Sent to the Peruvian Minister Regarding McCord Claim. The Secretary of State has addressed another note to the Peruvian minister, politely but firmly requesting a speedy settor H. McCord, an American citizen, who was ill-treated by the Peruvian officers while in charge of railroads in that country during a rebellion. It is held that nothing now remains but to adjust the sum to be paid McCord, and $50,000 is mention as a proper figure, being about half of the original claim. Moreover, it is believed that no opening is left by the department for arbitration or anything short of an im-mediate acknowledgment of the claim by Peru and its settlement as the price of the friendship of the United States government.

TRADES

Strengthening the Base Ball Teams for Next Year.

WAGNER'S BIG OFFER REJECTED

Poor Prospect for the Double Umpire System.

CURRENT NOTES OF SPORT

The magnates of the National League were to begin their meeting at noon yeserday in Philadelphia, but it was 3 o'clock pefore they were called to order by Presi dent Young. They remained in session until near 6 o'clock, discussing such topic as the league's relations to the mino eagues, telegraphic privileges, the umptre question and other minor matters. That was the official end of the proceedings. But down in the corridors of the Walton Hotel a couple of trades were pulled off and dozens of propositions made.

The Biggest Trade. The biggest trade of the day was ar ranged between the Philadelphia and St. Louis clubs. The Philadelphia club secures Shortstop Monty Cross, Catcher Douglass and Pitcher Donahue in exchange for Jack Taylor, pitcher; Lave Cross, Clements and Dowd. This deal was discussed in all its details by the base ball and news paper men, and the almost universal ver dict was arrived at that the St. Louis mag-nate came out on top. The Philadelphia club needs a first-class shortstop, but Cross is far from being that sort of a player. He belongs to the spotty class, playing one game in the most sensational style and in the next two or three making blunders that the poorest minor leaguer would be ashamed of. Dorahue is about the only good man in the three, although Douglass by utilizing him at first base, may, per haps, strengthen one of the Phillies' many weak points. On the other hand, Taylor and Clements, not more than two years and Clements, not more than two years back, were considered about the best mer in the two positions in the big league Rusie, of course, excepted. Lave Cross season before last played third base in such an exceptional style that he led the league in that position with an average very close to the 1000 per cent mark Tommy Dowd goes back to St. Louis where he has a host of friends and where where he has a nost of triends and where his work was considered above the ordi-nary. When Dowd arrived in Philadelphia he found a class of players and people that proved his undoing. Back in the mound city Tommy will no doubt get back in firstclass form and play the ball that the Washington people know he is capable of.

Wagners' Offer Rejected. to the Philadelphia magnates looking to the sale of the entire senatorial outfit for $30,000 was the chief subject of discussion among the base ball people around the hotel, and it was the general opinion that Messrs. Reach and Rogers made a monumestrs. Reach and topers made a monu-mental mistake when they refused the Washington magnate's offer. It was ar-gued that Mercer's release was worth at least $7,500; McJames, $5,000; DeMontre-ville, $7,500, and McGuire Wrigley and Sel-bach should command $20,000 more. Of course these figures may be a little high on the basis of what base ball players are worth in cash today, but their value to the Philadelphia club, would be thousands worth in cash today, but their value to the Philadelphia club, would be thousands above these figures. The offer was held under advisement by the Philadelphia magnates for three or four hours, but they finally concluded to decline. This decision can be looked upon as a lucky one for the Washington base ball 'people. It was a rather strange coincidence that Reach and Rogers made up a list of twenty players they would take in the event of their acceptance of the Wagners' proposition that agreed to a man with the list that the Washington magnates had made up.

A good many Washington base ball enthusiasts have been hoping, in fact, have been expecting, to read a denial from him of the reported proposition to sell out of the reported proposition to sell out Washington for $30,000. They didn't believe that he would do it. They thought that he was in a fair way to become a second Hanlon. He has the nucleus of a first division to the second handon. first division team, and the home folks expected him to strengthen it instead of ruining it. There are two things about the proposition that Washington people can-not understand. One is how Earle Wagner could make the offer and the other is how the Philadelphia magnates could refuse it.

A Good Deal for Cincinnati. Another deal that has all the ear marks of being one-sided was that agreed upon between the Cincinnati and Pittsburg clubs. President Brush and Manager Ewing of former club give the Pittsburg club Pitcher Rhines, Catcher Schriver, Third Baseman Grey and Outfielder McCarthy. In return President-Manager Watkins of the smoky President-Manager Watkins of the smoky city team gives up Pitcher Hawley and Left Fielder Elmer Smith. This deal will strengthen the Cincinnati club very materially, while it is all a case of future development looking at it from a Pittsburg point of view. Rhines is about Hawley's equal in a pitching sense, but is a harder man to handle and is about ten years "Pink's" senior. Elmer Smith is a natural .350 hitter, and had he been in the Reds' left garden last season they would no doubt have finished in first or second place. Schriver will strengthen Pittsburg's weakest point, behind the bat, while the weakest point, behind the bat, while the work of McCarthy and Grey can only be Possibilities. There is a possibility that Mike Grady, the pugnacious catcher and first baseman of the St. Louis club, will go to New York mare, Sapling, ridden by Tod Sloane, the in his demands. President Freedman of the New Yorks yesterday morning offered Doheny and Holmes and a cash consideration for Grady and Taylor. This looked too rich for the St. Louis magnate, and he made a counter-proposition of Grady and Hartman for $10,000. This was too much for Mr. Freedman, but there is more than a fair possibility that a good-sized wad of money will land Mr. Grady in the New York camp. It was reported that Manager Hanlon of the Baltimores also had an eye on Haw-ley, Smith and Donovan of the Pittsburgs, but refused to say what players he would give in exchange.

A scene that was not down on the schedule came off a little before 6 o'clock in the corridor of the Walton Hotel between Prescorridor of the Walton Hotel between President Freedman of the New Yorks and ex-Umpire George Burnham. The latter, a little the worse for too much liquid re-freshments, tried to strike up a familiar speaking acquaintance with the New York man, which the former resented in positive terms. A wordy warfare followed, in which George Davis, the New York shortstop, and President Hart for Chicago became embroiled, but the interference of friends of both parties prevented anything worse than both parties prevented anything worse than words being passed between the parties in-

Tried to Get Selbach. Another deal that fell through was the ffer of Cincinnati an exchange Shortston Ritchey and Left Fielder Holliday to Washington for Outfielder Selbach, Mr. Wagner declining to consider the trade, as he had er ough infielders, and, besides, falled to see wherein Washington would be strength-

Guests of the Philadelphia Club. Last night the visiting magnates and newspaper men were the guests of the Philadelphia club at a dinner at the Belleview Hotel. Col. Rogers of the Philadelphia club presided. Speeches were made by Editor Richter of the Sporting Life, Judge Beltler, and other prominent people of Philadelphia. Some fifty guests were at the different tables. Among the names published of those being present at the banquet it is noticed that the Messra Wagner, President Young and Tom Brown were not present. Why the Washington people were not among the guests can only be strmised, but the absence of Nick Young was generally commented upon. Uncle Nick gave as his excuse that he has never attended a banquet, and that he does not propose to begin at this late day.

The official scorers of the National League hald an informal meeting yesterday, at which methods to bring about uniview Hotel. Col. Rogers of the Philadel fomity in scoring were discussed. They will hold another meeting today. All the visiting base ball magnates in

All the visiting base ball magnates in Philadelphia and also the newspaper men will make up a large box party at one of the Philadelphia theaters this evening. To-morrow evening the Pen and Pencil Club will take a hand in entertaining the visiwill take a nanc in entertaining the visitors.

The report that Manager-Captain Anson of the Chicago club would be replaced by the old Chicago third baseman, Tom Burns, who last year managed the Springfield Eastern League club, was proved false last evening. Mr. Anson and President Hart of the Chicago club both said that such a change has never been under consideration. Mr. Burns went to Philadelphia with the sole object of securing a birth as umpire on Uncle Nick's staff next year.

Boston and Baltimore "Stand Pat."

Boston and Baltimore "Stand Pat." The story about the Boston club owners eeing disssatisfied with Hamilton, Lowe and Long is said to have been made out of he whole cloth. Mr. Soden said last even ing that the club owners were well satisfied with all the players that had helped to win the pennant Manager Hanlon of the Baltimores said

Manager Hanlon of the Baltimores said last evening that he was going to stand pat with the players he already had on his reserve list. Others know better. One magnate said that he could not stand pat, because he knew that at least one player had announced his determination to quit the game rather than play ball in Baltimore again. Jack Doyle told Hanlon right after the last Temple game, according to this magnate, that he might just as well make arrangements for him to play somewhere eles next season, as he would never play in Baltimore again. Robinson will not be with the Baltimores again. His throwing arm is gone. McGraw is another player whom Manager Hanlon would like to trade, according to this magnate, and he is not quite sure but Joe Kelly would be let out in a plach. This magnate says that no one should believe for a second that Hanlon is going to stand pat, as his team was not fast enough this year, and he is afraid to take the field next season with the same crew.

Several of the prominent base ball maglates gave the laugh to the report that the double umpire system would be adopted next season. The officials of the league expense of about $10,000 being the great est obstacle to the new idea, and the chances are that the proposition will be buried this time as it has been before. President Freedman showed himself to be a man true to his friends yesterday when he announced that as long as he was connected with the New York club he would play one game each season, the receipts of which would go to the daughter of the late base ball writer, O. P.

Caylor.

Another topic which was not popular with the magnates was the Temple cup subject. It begins to look as though the post season series will be abolished and the cup returned to its donor, Mr. W. S. Temple of Pittsburg. The latter had not arrived in Philadelphia up to yesterday toon, but it was rumored that he will be on hand today and take the initiative in regard to the matter.

Ned Hanlon's scheme of making a purse of $12,000 to be divided among the first three clubs is not much of a hit. Hanlon says that the post season games will not says that the post season games will not be abolished, but that they will be placed under control of the league. However, the opinions on this subject vary greatly. It is said that Fred Clarke of the Louis-villes is after Second Baseman Billie Hallman, and that the latter's desire to get away from St. Louis may be gratified. This is another dicker that is liable to go

BEST RACING OF THE MEET.

Favorites and Two Two favorites and two second choice mished first yesterday at the fourth day of the second fall meeting of the Washington Jockey Club, the other race going to an outsider. The track showed a little condition, and slow and heavy. The at endance was much better, the speculation being the heaviest of the meeting. In the fourth race Hairpin, finishing third, was disqualified for fouling Merlin, and Isen was placed third, although about everybody but Judge McDowell believed Isen beaten by Pontet Canet by a length or more. In that race Chargrace, at 100 to 1. was beaten only a head, after getting 1, was beaten only a head, after getting off absolutely last. FOOT BALL.

Coming Game Between the Columbia and Kulckerbocker Clubs. The Columbia Athletic Club will have does not a very hard row to hoe with the Knicker-becker Athletic Club of New York in the frot ball scheduled for those teams Saturday next at National Park. With the exlumbia Athletic Club, it will in all proba bility be the most notable foot bail con test in this city this season, and there will be many who will go to the park to see what sort of a game the giants from

New York will put up.

The Knickerbocker team has been scored The Knickerbocker team has been scored against but once this year, but that was at the hands of the team that defeated the Columbia Athletic Club—the Orange Athletic Club, and the team occupies a place at the head of the athletic clubs of the country in the matter of foot ball. The team is made up of men who have been famous on the gridiron in years past, and every member of the team is nearly six feet high. Some idea of the strength of the eleven may be gained from the fact that its average weight is 200 pounds. The weight of the center is 225 pounds and the men on either side of him at guard weigh almost as much.

the best at the command of the club to cope with the braves from the Tammany district.

Adam Johnson, that well known rock at center, will alternate with Underwood in that position, and it is more than likely that the opposing center, whatever his weight, will have his hands full. "Tubby" Dickinson and Saunders will play the positions of guards, while Capt. Wells and McGowan will be found in the position of tackles. The ends of the Columbia team are weak as regards weight, but immensely are weak as regards weight, but immensely strong in the matter of activity and foot ball skill. Taussig and Curtiss will be found in these positions, and while very light for the strong team that will go round them may be depended upon to do their best. Behind the line will be found Humphrey at quarter, Parson's shoulder not having healed sufficiently to permit his coming into the game. Reeve Lewis, whom everyone knows as an excellent half, will be found in that position, with the other one to be filled by either John haif, will be found in that position, with the other one to be filled by either John Maupin or Watson, but as both of these are laid up at present, it is more than likely that Hooker will be found in the place. The Quakers played with a snap and skill that surprised the mutes, who were not able to make much headway after the first few minutes of play. The Gallaudet team was much the heavier, and this told the story of the game in a great measure. Georgetown Freshmen Won. In a prettily played game yesterday afterncon on the Georgetown campus, '99 went down before 1901 by a score of 10 to 0. The day was a trifle warm for foot ball but it did not seem to have any effect soon the twenty-two warriors battling on the grid-

Iron.

The freshmen kicked off and T. Cullen brought the ball back about five yards. Here the juniors tried to buck the line, but 1991 broke through and kept them from gaining more than a yard. Then '199 tried the quarterback kick and secured the ball in the middle of the field. Idea Of Tailoring Values?

This may strike you as a strange question to ask, for the natural presumption is-lower the price, bigger the value. While you always find our prices the lowest, let us say that according to our business methods, it requires more than simply a price to make the truly unmatchable values for which the name of this house is so celebrated. Our values combine four distinctive factors. First, we constantly show a quantity and variety of Cloths to meet every fancy and gratify every taste regarding coloring and effect-secondly, we handle no shoddy stuff, as our Cloths are all wool, and the wool that the sheep furnishesthirdly, our uppermost principle is to earnestly try and please every customer--fourthly, no matter how sweeping an underprice we make, each and every order placed with us is given the most careful attention to produce finished garments of such all around goodness as will make the wearer feel that he has the best tailoring value to be obtained anywhere.
